HAD SINKING SPELL WHILE ON SCAFFOLD

Edgerton Stone Mason Working on Bank, Stricken and Was Only Saved by Fellow Workmen.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Edgerton, Wis., July 7.—S. Omsberg, a stone mason working on the front of the Tobacco Exchange Bank, had a sinking spell and fell over on a plank of the scaffold, which was about ten feet above the ground. Workmen working at his side came to his aid at once. He was then taken to his home in T. B. Barlow's auto. Mr. Omsberg is subject to these spells. Only the prompt aid of his fellow workmen kept the man from falling off the plank. He will undoubtedly be all right again in a day or two.

Passengers in Thrilling Race Through Flames in Northern Michigan.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 7.—With the woods on both sides of the road a mass of flames, half a dozen passengers in the stage which runs from this place to Pickford had a wild ride for their lives yesterday. Dynamite Cartridge Suspended Over Road Near Harriman Home.

Goshen, N. Y., July 7.—A dynamite cartridge hanging from a tree at a height where a covered automobile would strike and probably explode it was found suspended by a length of twine above the road over which the Harriman automobiles pass from Arden house to the station and to Arden farms.

The late E. H. Harriman, his wife and daughters have always been popular in Orange county and there is no explanation offered of what appears an alarming piece of malice.

About Beans.

The bean that we eat in some form nearly every day, that almost everybody likes, is comparatively new as an edible. Our common, everyday bean is a native of South America and was introduced into Europe, whence it came to this country, during the sixteenth century, and now is represented by more than 150 cultivated varieties. The big, broad bean is so remote that it is doubtful. It is probably a native of southwestern Asia and northeastern Europe.

Things Get Better.

In spite of all the confusions and thwartings of life, the habits and resiliences and the counterstrokes of fate, it is manifest that, in the long run, human life becomes broader than it was, gentler than it was, finer and deeper. One the whole—and now-days almost steadily—things get better. This is a secular amelioration of life, and it is brought about by good will working through the efforts of men.—H. G. Wells.

BLEACHED FLOUR VERDICT IN.

Federal Jury Find Product Seized By Government Impure.

Kansas City, Mo., July 7.—"We, the jury, find that the flour seized was adulterated."

"We, the jury, find that the flour seized was adulterated." These two verdicts were returned in the federal court here by the jury that for more than five weeks had listened to testimony for and against the charge of the government that 625 sacks of flour, bleached and sold by the Lexington Mill and Elevator company of Lexington, Neb., and seized by the government while in the possession of the purchaser, a grocer at Castle, Mo., were adulterated and misbranded.

The verdict is a complete victory for the government, which prosecuted the suit under the national pure food and drug act. The government charged that the flour was adulterated in that it was bleached by the Alox process, which makes use of nitrogen peroxide in bleaching flour. Misbranding was charged in that the flour seized was labeled a fancy patent and, the government contended, it was not a fancy patent because it was not made from a first grade hard winter wheat.

WANT JOHNSON BARRED OUT.

Washington Authorities Considering Keeping Puggilist Out of Town.

Washington, July 7.—Not content with excluding the moving pictures of the Jeffries-Johnson pugilistic affair from Washington, the authorities are now considering keeping Jack Johnson himself out of the town. This action is important, as this is a federal jurisdiction.

The district commissioners received a protest from Washington ministers against the "appearance or visit" of Johnson in or to this city.

The attitude of the ministers is that if the pictures would incite to race riots, there would be more cause for danger in the presence of Johnson himself. The commissioners have taken under advisement the legal questions involved.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 7.—Glenn H. Curtiss made another flight over the ocean, spending twelve minutes and thirteen seconds in the air. He says flying over the sea is more certain than flights over land, because of the less sudden change in air currents.

EASILY ANSWERED.

One often hears the question, "Are we a thrifless nation?" Economists who keep their noses down to the pages of the volumes they touch from and wild-eyed reformers say we are. They call a halt in the useless waste of time that the citizens of today indulge in and call pleasure.

Poinding out that thrift was one of the dominant traits of the American people before the Civil war, the New York Independent is one of this class, and is constrained to conclude that the country is now suffering from the effects of a reaction that set in a little later than the period named and that has gone too far. The complaint now is that combined with waste of time and resources the tendency toward education, which is pronounced a national bid, enormously impairs our effectiveness as a democratic community. We are told that the intensity of the struggle to win a place in the world where income may be gained by some kind of "brain work" is another contributing influence toward our national decadence.

But, in reality, are we suffering from or menaced by any such thing as national decadence? One who takes a broad survey of the nation and its activities will certainly dispute the point. Thrift, as we understand it in these days, employs very different methods and implements from those in vogue fifty years ago. And thrift never found wider or more generous reward than it does now. Within half a century our national thrift and its modern tools have developed two-thirds of the continent, and development is proceeding at this very time, at the instance and under the touch of the thrifty, at a rate that is astounding to the rest of mankind.

Men and women half a century ago could not be made to understand that men and women in our time would be able to accomplish many things more than they in a day's work without performing actual manual labor. Inventions, conveniences, appliances, labor-saving devices, have increased immensely even in the last ten years. If there are shorter hours and lighter labor, and if, as a result, there is more time for recreation and amusement, this is mainly due to the fact that while the period is less exacting in its demands upon muscle, it is more exacting in its demands upon thought.

One of the chief essentials of the summer resort, advertising good fishing and boating, is a lot of card tables and bridge whist score sheets with plenty of cards. The rest will take care of itself and the resort owner can advertise the same fish and same boats next season without fear of their being damaged this summer.

THE INDIANS' FUTURE.

It is significant of the trend of the times that particular pains are being taken by the census bureau with regard to the enumeration of the Indian population of the United States as a preliminary step toward granting the aborigines greater consideration in a political way than has been accorded them at any previous time since the white invasion of this continent began. Unknown, perhaps, to the multitude, but none the less certainly, we have been transforming the Indian, in habit and character, by a process of education which, if not always wise, has been generally well-directed and admirably persistent during the last third of a century. It will be a surprise to most people that this is to be the last time the census report will show the tribal relations of the Indians and that, according to the calculations of the officials of the census bureau, all of the red men of the country will have become citizens before the close of the present decade.

There has long prevailed a popular impression, the outgrowth of a popular prejudice, that the Indian is not amenable to the influences of civilization, and this despite many and striking examples going to prove directly the contrary. The red man, individualized and liberated from oppressive traditions, has developed the ability to do for himself and for others, and has displayed unmistakably qualities that entitle him to claim the right of citizenship.

We shall very soon be confronted in a tangible way with these facts. The admission of Arizona and New Mexico will give the Indians even a better opportunity than they have had in Oklahoma to exhibit their progress.

FORLORN HOPE.

The insurgent press of the country set it every time Colonel Roosevelt greets an insurgent member of congress pleasantly, to announce that the former president has gone over, body and soul, to the cause of the insurgents and then when a few hours later Colonel Roosevelt denies he has made any statement, whatever, they ignore it. The insurgent press is fighting a forlorn hope. They hope to keep the public stirred up to the belief that Taft stands alone in the question of republicanism and that our former strenuous exponent is known to him. If the truth be told, Colonel Roosevelt is hearing all sides of the situation before he makes any official statement and when he does it will be up to the insurgent press, in Wisconsin and elsewhere, to give it as much prominence as they now do the silly rumors of his encouragement of the men who are harassing the republican administration.

The state fair board, according to Mr. Noney of Milwaukee, considers itself far ahead of the law or the average intelligence of the rest of the citizens of the state. Well, look and see how well most of the members have feathered their own nests, summer and winter.

M. J. Cleary of Blanchardville, candidate for the commissioner of insurance, makes it clear to the voters that he is a candidate for office for the best good of the general public, and the way in which his nomination papers have been signed show this to be a fact.

Down in the third assembly district Charles Gault is being backed by the Taft republicans for the assembly. Mr. Gault is a man of sterling qualities who would not ask God to forgive him for voting as his constituents had asked him to by their votes at the primary.

In the great field of state politics the gubernatorial fight over-shadows all the rest. State Senator E. T. Fairchild and his light under the standard of loyalty to Taft is making votes and friends despite the hurplings of the opposition press.

The first assembly district will make no mistake if they send Laurence Whitteit back to the assembly as their representative again this fall. Mr. Whitteit made his mark at the last session and it is more than a session matter this interest in his return.

Still the candidates appear for the county offices. Any excuse will do to run although some of the announcements cause a smile on the faces of those that know the aspirants. This primary law is a great thing for an ambitious office-seeker.

Surely the official rain-maker might be induced to bring forth results after all these weeks of burning heat. It could not even hurt the corn crop now and might make it grow faster than over if a shower or so came along.

Louisiana has elected a United States senator and as far as can be learned there will be no inquiry as to the ways and means.

There is not a sporting writer in the country that can not explain just how Johnson won that fight July 4th, now it is all over.

That was the most profitable flicking that Jim Jeffries got since his mother spanked him for good and sufficient reasons.

Only Needed Another.

I was walking on the beach last Sunday with my nephew, and I told him that I would give him a dollar if he could find two pebbles exactly alike. Full of glee, John began searching. By and by he came running to me very much excited, and said: "Oh, uncle, I've found one of them."—Exchange.

Uncle Walt

THE POET PHILOSOPHER

By WALT MASON,
(Copyright, 1909, by George Matthews Adams.)

I blew into a clothing store, to buy a sock, and nothing more. There stood a dummy in the clothes aisle; a wooden thing AND MEN with graven smiles, all dressed up in a suit of clothes, and glasses perched upon its nose. A clerk came up to wait on me; as fresh a youth as you might see. I said: "I want to buy a sock. If you have such a thing in stock, you do not want a suit of clothes?" "We surely have," he said; "if you do not want a suit of clothes, I'll like to sell you a yonder trunk; it's made of glass, with leather streaked 'I want a sock!' I fairly shrieked; "And that it, sir, you let me be—I'll have that dummy wait on me! Though modeled on an awkward plan, I venture he's a gentleman. He will not try to sell a clock to one who's asking for a sock; he won't insult me to my nose by hinting that I'm needing clothes. He will not offer me a trunk, or any other ding-donged junk, when all I want beneath this roof is just a bolster for my hoof. The boss of these designated workers should let the dummies act as clerks, and stand the clerks along the aisles, exhibiting the latest styles!"

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

FRIGHTENING CHILDREN.

The other day at Washington, Pa., a boy was missing.

Men went everywhere in an organized search for the child. The river was dragged. The parents were in an agony of fear and anxiety.

About 8 o'clock the boy, a six-year-old, returned to his home and asked his mother if "the census man had gone."

Some one had told the little fellow that the census man "took bad boys away with him."

The boy had done something wrong, some childish thing that was on his conscience, and when he saw the census man knock at the front door he ran out of the back door and hid himself for the day.

To frighten a child thus is a wicked thing to do and exceedingly harmful. And yet this wickedness is common, even with parents. Oftentimes you will hear a mother threaten her offspring with some bogeyman. "The black man will get you if you go out on the street!" shouts an unthinking mother to her baby.

Fearful calamities are prophesied to children contingent upon their disobedience of some trivial rule of the household.

Which is a great mistake. Some day the child will find out the deception and lose confidence in its mother's warnings, which is no slight injustice.

And the immediate effect, as in the case of this Pennsylvania boy, is to make the child miserable with apprehension.

To put fear into the heart of an innocent babe is to depress its little heart, lighten its little nerves and stunt its normal feelings.

It is more than stupid thus to treat a little one. It is almost criminal. Courage is man's chief asset.

Fear is his deadliest foe. More and more as conditions grow harder, competition fiercer and the strife of life more strenuous does the man or woman of today need courage, confidence and self control.

To hamper the energies and paralyze the nerves of the men and women of tomorrow by the introduction of fear is to prevent them from doing what they ought to do or being what they ought to be.

It is a crime not only against the individual, but against the race. Civilization today would be advanced a thousand years but for the superstition and dread caused by foolish fears. And superstition still lurks in the corners of man's brain because of the ghost stories of ages past.

Do not thoughtlessly harm your child by stories or threats of evil.

Teach him that in all the universe of God there is nothing for him to fear—except himself.

HE WAS THE WHOLE THING

Block—I thought you said you were having the whole stage to yourself for once in your life.

Actor—Well, I not only had the whole stage to myself, but at the last town I was in I had the whole house to myself.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER.

Tarrytown, N. Y.—Congratulations are being showered upon John D. Rockefeller today on the occasion of his seventy-first birthday by his thousands of friends over the entire country. When seen at his home last night he seemed in high spirits. He is spending the summer quietly here surrounded by the immediate members of his family.

PARROT AN INTERESTING PET

Bird in No Way Objectionable and Easy to Keep Healthy and Happy.

Parrots, always popular, are now quite the rage, and any girl acquiring one for the first time will find him a most interesting pet. Mr. Poll need not screech or be otherwise objectionable to those who do not admire him, and, indeed, never will be noisy unless he is unhappy because hungry, thirsty, ill or lonely.

Under any of these conditions he humans cry out until relieved, and Polly will do the same. He is a most sociable fellow, and though sometimes a great talker, he is a good listener as well, cocking his little head on one side when conversed with, and seeming to take it all in in a most intelligent and often most comical way. If left too much alone he gets very unhappy and nopes so that unless you understand the cause you might think him seriously ill.

Muscle in any form he adores and it will always brighten him when he is crumpled. Another of his peculiarities is that he dislikes to be disturbed when asleep, and as, like humans, he is susceptible to drafts when slumbering, it is wise as well as kind to cover his cage at night with a cloth.

Roses of Temple Gardens.
Perhaps the two most famous flowers in history are associated with the Temple Gardens at London, for according to tradition it was in the gardens in 1430 that the two leaders plucked the red and white roses which became the badges of the rival houses of Lancaster and York.

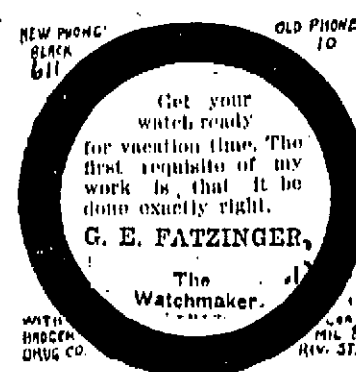

The gardens were for centuries famous for their roses. Among their floral curiosities one finds in the accounts for 1709 an expenditure on two vermic box trees, and wonders what a peroxide tree is until one remembers the custom of trimming box trees in a symmetrical or "perimetric" fashion.

Real Wealth.
Gunner—They say since Cogswood bought his new automobile he has run into wealth. Guyer—Yes, he has run into a 400-pound hog the other day.

BY COMPARISON

"To know Dobson is a liberal education."
"Is it?"
"Yes, it's such a total idiot that you feel like a college graduate while in his company."

A Slight Jolt.
Bapleigh—I'd never marry a strong-minded woman, doncher know. Miss Caustique—I can readily believe that. In fact, I don't believe the woman who faces the parson with you will have any mind at all.

Simplicity.
"Nor knowest thou what argument thy life to thy neighbor's creed hath lent?" Some one has observed and appreciated. It may be a stranger, but that does not matter.

Some Were Overlooked.
"I understand that twenty-five thousand bad eggs have been discovered in 1910-burg." "I always thought the population of Pittsburg was greater than that."

Kansas Society.
Society may suit some people, but so far as we are concerned it consists of nothing but an uncomfortable chair to sit on and a dab of something indigestible to eat.—Atchison Globe.

Extreme Novelties

Some bargains are better than others. Often Novelties are bought in sample lots far below their worth because being novelties they must be sold at once or their value depreciates. We mention two such lots that we secured at very low prices and offer at proportionately low figures.

These occurrences happen often here and we find that many of our friends are glad to take advantage of these exceptional offerings. Here are two of them:

AUTOMOBILE SUITS—These are made especially for autoing. Two-piece, dress fits over street garments, has low neck and long sleeves full length, buttons down front, with coat made loose fitting, no sleeves. We show these in colors of brown, tan, light blue, light green, white, etc. Prices range $4.00 to $10.00. One suit of light blue, pure Irish linen, trimmed with baby Irish crochet and pearl buttons. A handsome auto suit, value fully $25.00, priced $10.00. These are sample garments.

EXTREME NOVELTY Skirt and Jumper Jacket, made in King blue of pure Irish linen, trimmed with baby Irish lace in rows and rows. This extreme novelty suit is worth $20.00, marked for immediate sale at $5.00.

SILK WAISTS—One lot of silk waists, values $4, $5 and $6, black and colors, for clearance while they last, at $2.98.

MILLINERY—All $5.00 trimmed hats are now selling at $1.50 and $1.75. The higher priced hats are equally low in price now.

LINEN SUITS—The popular styles in a great variety of shades and colors. A lot we secured that are really exceptional values. They are worth $5.00 to $15.00, our prices $2.50 to $7.50. Suits of helio trimmed in lavender with white pearl buttons, suits of raisin shades, cream, tan, trimmed with collars of black, white, chambray, etc.

CANOE CAPSIZED;
TWO SAVED FROM DEATH IN RIVER

Clarence Sutherland Saves Miss Emma Rogge and Thomas Cassaday From Drowning.
While canoeing on Rock river north of the city Monday afternoon, Miss Emma Rogge and Thomas Cassaday narrowly escaped drowning when their craft capsized. Had it not been for the prompt assistance of Clarence Sutherland who happened to be near the scene of the accident, both would undoubtedly have lost their lives as neither could swim. An attempt was made to keep the details of the accident secret but it was unsuccessful and the story leaked out today.
It is not known just how the canoe was overturned as spectators were first apprised of the canoeists plight by the shouts of Mr. Cassaday who was unable to swim and who was attempting to aid his companion. Miss Rogge was about to disappear under the water for the third time when rescued by Mr. Sutherland who heard the shouts for aid and rowed hurriedly to the scene.
Both Miss Rogge and Mr. Cassaday were exhausted when brought to shore but revived and at present are suffering no ill effects from their narrow escape. Much praise is accorded their rescuer for had he hesitated a moment in coming to their rescue, the accident would have resulted fatally.

SUIT AGAINST THE THOROUGHGOOD CO.

Leonard Kunka Was Restrained by Courts From Using Cigar Labels Sold to Him by Local Concern.

The case of Leonard Kunka of Chicago vs. The Thoroughgood company was tried before Judge Phipps in municipal court today. Attorney P. H. Richardson representing the plaintiff and Attorney George C. Sutherland, the defendant. It appears that the plaintiff some time ago purchased a quantity of so-called "Schiller" cigar labels of the defendant. Subsequently a man named Mueller of Chicago who had, it is alleged, been using the same labels, sued Kunka from using the said labels and obliging him to turn over those on hand. He now seeks to recover from the Thoroughgood company the amount paid for the said commodity and the costs of the action, claiming that there was a breach of the warranty on the part of the Thoroughgood firm which is alleged to have been a condition precedent to the transaction.

GUARANTEE A POPULAR FEATURE.

Women are pleased to know that if Jansville Lily factory does not prove satisfactory in every way that their grocer is authorized to refund the purchase price in exchange for the flour. This woman who is willing to use the 2-lb. free sample which is left by Miss Kunka, a representative from the mill, and finds it satisfactory, takes absolutely no chance of being disappointed, for all the flour is sold on the money back plan. "Miss Kunka is going to call on every woman in the city if possible, and she says that so far she has received a hearty welcome at most every house she visits."

MANY ATTENDED THE GREENMAN FUNERAL

Remains of the Late William H. Greenman Laid at Rest at Oak Hill Cemetery Today.
All that was mortal of the late William H. Greenman was tenderly laid at rest in Oak Hill cemetery this noon. Accompanied by Mrs. Greenman and her daughter, Mabel, and Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hall, who joined them in the funeral, the remains of the late Just before noon reached the city. Just before noon reached the city. The funeral party were met at the depot by intimate friends and W. G. Wheeler of Milwaukee, V. P. Richardson, P. J. Mount, H. G. Carter, Geo. D. Simpson, and Chas. Putnam, the pallbearers, and taken directly to the Oak Hill chapel. There more friends awaited to pay their last respects to the dead. There was a delegation from the local Commercial club, from the Bollet lodge of Elmhurst, from the Jansville lodge of the same order, employees from both the Bollet and Jansville stores of Bory, Bailey & Co., members of the Jansville fire police and intimate friends and neighbors from both Bollet and Jansville. Rev. H. Fowler of the Bollet Congregational church read the service and, for the time, the remains were laid at rest in the vault. Thoughtful friends had arranged the floral designs in the chapel and the ceremony was most impressive. Mr. Greenman was a man who had many friends both in Jansville and Bollet, and his loss is deeply felt by all who knew him. According to the office papers his last illness came upon him suddenly while fishing in the woods with his brother. He was hurriedly taken to Edgerton and despite all that medical aid could do, passed quietly away on the morning of July 4th, his death being the cause of death assigned.

DORSEY TO FIGHT FOR HIS LIBERTY

Entered a Plea of Not Guilty to Charge of Larceny in Municipal Court Today—Trial on Monday.
When the criminal action against him on the charge of stealing a puff of smoke worth $2.50 from the Marshall company, coupled with a citation in the complaint of a former conviction for larceny on April 30, 1909, and the resulting confinement for one year in the state penitentiary, was called for trial in municipal court this morning, Albert Dorsey waived the reading of the charges and entered a plea of "not guilty." The trial was adjourned to Monday morning and the youth will remain in jail during the interval. O. E. Gestreich appeared for District Attorney Fisher and Attorney A. M. Fisher represented Dorsey.

THIS IS TIME TO TAKE PRECAUTIONS

Everything is Dry As a Bone and Danger of Fire is Great—Inflammable Refuse in Alleys.
Mayor Carle, and Chief Kohn of the fire department, all believe that some good may be accomplished by calling the attention of the people to the fact that the protracted dry spell has converted the city into a big tinder box and that extra precautions are highly desirable. According to Chief Kohn there are heaps of inflammable refuse in many of the alleys, particularly the ones on the west side of the Hayes block and just south of West Milwaukee streets. One of these heaps may at any moment "start something" which will cause the loss of thousands of dollars. A word to the wise ought to be sufficient.

WITNESSED A RACE RIOT IN KANSAS CITY TUESDAY

Edward J. Bennett, Who Returned From Colorado Springs Today, Saw Close to a Firing Line.
Edward J. Bennett returned this morning from a trip to Colorado Springs. Mrs. Bennett will remain there two weeks longer. At the depot in Kansas City Tuesday morning, Mr. Bennett witnessed a race riot which was with great difficulty broken up by the police. A colored man drove up to the curb and in a loud voice demanded a paper containing the latest concerning the victory of Mr. Johnson. That was the signal for some thirty or forty white men who happened to be in the vicinity. They dragged the colored man from his rig; a band of colored men joined in the mob; the negroes fired their revolvers in the air, and the fracas ended with a half dozen negroes stretched out on the street and the arrival of the patrol wagons to get the balance.

FIRST SERVICES ARE HELD FOR M. W. FULLER

Body of Chief Justice on Way to Chicago for Interment—Sorrowful Ceremony Simple.

Boronto, Me., July 7.—In the Episcopal Church of the Redeemer, a little chapel surrounded by evergreen trees, was held the first funeral service for the late Melville Weston Fuller, chief justice of the Supreme court of the United States.

Associate Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes was the official representative of the United States Supreme court.

The funeral, which took place at Mulstony, the summer home of Mrs. Nathaniel Francis, where Justice Fuller died, was conducted by the Rev. James E. Freeman, an old friend of the Fuller family. He will accompany the body to Chicago, where the burial will be made on Friday in Graceland cemetery, beside the grave of the late Justice's wife.

Among those who attended the services here was Governor Hughes of New York, the newly appointed justice of the United States Supreme court. Messages of regret at their inability to be present at the services were received from President Taft, Colonel Roosevelt and scores of other notable men.

BAPTIST Y. P. U. AT BARATOGA.

International Convention Is Opened With a Large Attendance.

Baratoga Springs, N. Y., July 7.—After half an hour's song service this morning, Dr. W. J. Williamson of Milwaukee, formally opened the eighteenth international convention of the Baptist Young People's Union of America. There was a great crowd present, all parts of the country being represented. Mayor J. D. McNelly and Rev. John Mitchell welcomed the visitors to the city and response was made by Rev. H. P. Y. Moore of New York.

This afternoon the features were the presentation of international banners by Rev. F. L. Anderson of Illinois and the address and reception by the president, Rev. Dr. E. Y. Mullins, in Congress hall. The sessions of the convention will continue through Sunday, and many leaders in religious work will be heard.

One important matter of business affecting the union's future will be the approval of the appointment of a special commission to consider fully the future of the denominational relations of the young people's movements. This commission will report to the missionary Baptist convention in Philadelphia in June, 1911.

NOT RESPONSIBLE FOR WRECK.

Train Dispatcher Denies He Caused Disaster at Middletown.

Cincinnati, July 7.—Dispatches from Dayton declare that Albert J. Smith, train dispatcher of the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton railroad, whose orders were relied upon by the train crews of that system Monday, denied vehemently that he was responsible for the Middletown disaster, in which twenty-three persons were killed.

"I am not responsible for the wreck," he said, according to the reports. "I told the freight to stay on the siding at Middletown and I cannot understand why it was not there. I do not care to place the blame at this time."

SON OF PRESIDENT EXONERATED.

Robert H. Taft Held Blameless in Auto Accident Injury.

Beverly, Mass., July 7.—President Taft was informed that the state highway commissioners have completed their investigation into the accident in which Robert Taft, son of the president, ran down with an automobile Di Gregorio, an Italian laborer.

Young Mr. Taft is completely exonerated, the commissioners deciding that he was in no way responsible for the accident and the president will be informed that his son may have an automobile license as soon as he cares to apply for it.

HIT CANNON-ALDRICH POLICIES.

South Dakota Republicans Declare Themselves Against Them.

Blount Falls, S. D., July 7.—The Republican state convention gave President Taft much heartier endorsement than was anticipated by many. The president was commended for his declarations of loyalty to what are known as the Roosevelt policies and his administration was indorsed as having made many substantial measures of reform into the statutes. The convention in all reference to Cannon and Aldrich declared against them in strong language.

Cupid Enters Home of Aged.

Rockford, Ill., July 7.—Love laughed at the board of women managers of the Winnebago County Home for the Aged when Mrs. Margaret Johnson, seventy-year-old, slipped away from the institution, where she had been a resident for four years, and was married at the court house to Timothy Holley, aged seventy-five, retired peanut merchant.

Panama Conditions Satisfactory.

SURPRISE FOR THE VISITOR

Maggie Remembered Her Lesson and Was Only Anxious to "Do It Right, Ma'am."

How to open the door and receive visitors properly was the first lesson taught green Maggie, fresh from a home where they opened the door any old way. To make the instruction practical Maggie and her mistress took turns in going outside and ringing the bell and presenting a card. Maggie took a childish delight in this peep-peek social game, and at the end of each experiment she said: "Did I do it right that time, ma'am?"

But for a long time it wasn't right. Each time "Did I do it right?" was answered with a despairing "No."

At last her mistress said: "Yes, I guess you will do now. I do hope Mrs. Brown won't find many faults in you."

In less than an hour after the sign of approval had been put upon Maggie's behavior, Mrs. Brown called. One glance at her card assured Maggie that she was the social arbiter whom criticism her mistress feared. With all her heart she wanted to make good.

She stepped outside, closed the door, and rang the bell. Mrs. Brown, being alone and not knowing what else to do, opened the door. Maggie stepped in and presented Mrs. Brown's card.

"Did I do it right, ma'am?" she asked.

Gruesome Charm Worked Well.

Charms as cures for sickness were common in England a century ago. Lady Wake, who was born in 1800, tells of a gruesome cure adopted for the removal of some birthmarks which disfigured her face. Her mother was persuaded that "a dead man's hand laid upon my cheek and hands would effectually remove the marks," she writes. "As a man could not be killed for the occasion, it was necessary to wait till some one died. An old man at last did die in one of the nearest cottages and I was taken there in my sleep. I remember, afterwards being constantly stopped by the widow, who always examined my cheek in order to ascertain the state of her husband's body, as the marks she told my nurse, would certainly fade away as he turned into dust. Whatever the cause of the cure, the marks in time disappeared."

Trinity in Early Days.

The west end of Trinity churchyard used to be a high bluff. It was a favorite resort for the inhabitants in that part of the town. From the top there was an uninterrupted view of the Hudson. It was in early days as much of a promenade as is Riverside at the present time.—New York Press.

Exercise.

The value of daily exercise is to bring the less used organs into play, that they may the better sustain the organs which to us individually appear more important.

Perverted Quotation.

More persistent even than the hackneyed misquotation is the verbally accurate quotation which is almost universally perverted in meaning. "One touch of nature makes the whole world kin" is commonly understood as expressing the fraternal sympathy of mankind. But turn up the line in "Troilus and Cressida" and you will discover, or rediscover, that it only means that all men are very much alike in one respect, that of liking novelties. A "foregone conclusion" is always used to mean a result which is absolutely certain. Othello meant by the phrase something that "had actually been done in the past, which Cassio did over again in a dream." And "to be or not to be" is almost invariably repeated in the sense of "to be done or not to be done," instead of "to exist or not to exist."

Rare Eggs of Familiar Birds.

To one not conversant with ornithology the statement that the eggs and nests of some well-known birds remain yet to be discovered must appear surprising. Yet such is the case.

The eggs of the curlew sandpiper, for instance, a bird familiar in Great Britain, were first discovered not so long ago on an island at the mouth of the Siberian river Yenisei.

There are a few other birds whose eggs have not yet been found, since they make their nests in remote regions, although living part of their lives among civilized men.—Harper's Weekly.

The Ticklemouse

—and his Sleepyland Adventures with Davy and Dorfy

By Roy Ruthenford Bailey

A Froggie's Wooing

"Oh, goody, goody! So we're here at last. Really, Mr. Ticklemouse, I thought we were never going to see the inside of your home. We've been just crazy to visit you here, haven't we, Davy?"

The Ticklemouse smiled good-naturedly and helped Dorfy take off her things. "Well, this isn't my winter palace, you know, I'm having that redecorated just now. This is what I call my summer home. How do you like it?"

Davy and Dorfy were wild with delight over the furnishings of the quaint little place. Everything was so different from the houses above ground—books, pictures, chairs; even the things to eat were as cute and as money as could be. They were just enjoying some cheese eclairs when the cat's head knocker on the front door gave a rattle that made them all jump.

Willy Wishingmouse, in his slippers and smoking jacket, went to the door. "Why, come right in, Cousin Ratcliff! Ask your friend to step in, won't you?"

Cousin Ratcliff was a big, gruff rat with stubby whiskers. His friend proved to be a handsome frog, more wonderfully dressed than any dandy the twins had ever seen. He smoothed his yellow vest with the brown spots on it and seemed a bit shy.

"Is Miss Rowley in?" He twirled his shiny opera hat between his slender paws as he asked it.

"Miss Rowley?" The mouse seemed to be studying his caller, trying to remember where he had seen him before.

"Why, Miss Rowley, of course!" The frog's eyes shifted from Willy to his uncle, then back to Cousin Ratcliff. The big rat slowly winked one eye at the Ticklemouse and tapped his forehead, and the Ticklemouse nodded to the frog as if he had just remembered.

"Ah, yes—Miss Rowley, yes. Will you excuse me a moment, gentlemen."

"Oh, I see. And what are we going to do with him, Ratcliff?" "Well, if you can scare up a ticklemouse who looks enough like Miss Rowley to fool him, just call her in and make believe for an hour or so and avoid any trouble. Got a spinning wheel?"

"Yes, there's one in the garret. And I guess Dorfy here will do for Miss Rowley—would you mind if I turned you into a ticklemouse for a while, dearie?"

Dorfy was willing, and soon was seated in the parlor spinning away as cheerfully as if she had done it all her life. Mr. Frog sighed as he watched her, and bowed low with his hand on his heart.

"Dear Miss Rowley, may I cut your threads off?" Mr. Frog's lovesick voice was very low and tender. Dorfy dimpled and told him he might. But she was scared stiff when he drew a knife as long as a sword and made a slash at the end of the skein. And the Ticklemouse was worse frightened than she was, for he saw the shining knife miss the yarn and come down on the tip of the Dorfy-mouse's little tail.

He gave such an angry squeal that Mr. Frog went straight out of the window with one huge jump, never even stopping for his hat.

And when the frightened little Dorfy-mouse was changed back into a little girl again, she had to wear a bandage on the tip of her finger—all because the Wooing Froggie's knife snipped off the tip of the Dorfy-mouse's tail!

No Man Over 43 Years of Age Need Apply.

There's the sign that's getting to be a common thing in America.

Corporations are retiring men at 50. They are not hiring anyone over 40.

It is important nowadays that a man should look as young as he is. It is just as important that a man with a family dependent upon him should take care of his hair.

If you have dandruff, get rid of it by killing the germs.

If your hair is falling out, stop it. If your hair is falling, don't delay.

There is one sure remedy that will cure these misfortunes and aid you to remain young.

Parlan Sage, the grand and efficient hair restorer, is guaranteed to permanently remove dandruff in two weeks, or People's Drug Co. will give you your money back.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By MUTH CAMERON

Do you remember the days when the vertical writing mania swept over this country?

Do you remember when you, if you were a youngster then or your children, if you are of the older generation, toiled painfully to make all the letters sit bolt upright and to banish the suspicion of a forward slant from the page?

And do you also remember that a good many of the children in their eagerness to make those letters absolutely upright even slanted them over backwards in a perfectly absurd and unnatural manner?

How many grown up people are doing just that same thing?

Figuratively, I mean, of course.

I know a rather poor girl who happened to be thrown into contact with wealthy people a good deal. She despised dandified tondyng, and was so afraid that she would be guilty of it that she was often actually dandified and impolite to her rich friends, whereas her manner to those of her own strata was always sweet and charming. Wasn't that slanting the letters over backwards?

I know a man in a certain office in this city who is so afraid that he will seem to be trying to curry favor with his employers that when he happens to come into touch with them he drops the pleasant manners that make him popular with his office mates and becomes a rather surly person. Isn't that slanting his letters over backwards?

I know—and I am sure you do—several people who are so anxious to tell the truth and never flatter, that they very frequently slant backwards into saying unnecessarily unkind and rude things.

My sister and I called on one of these people the other day. She looked us over with the entirely unvelled scrutiny that is part of the pose of these people, and then remarked, "I like your waist, Ruth, but I don't like Bertha's a bit." How absolutely unnecessary. It wasn't as though her opinion had been asked, and it had been necessary for her to say something. Even then, what she said would have been needlessly crude, but under the present conditions, it was simply a pure case of an eagerness to be frank, slanted over backwards into a plain rudeness.

Of course in these days when all sorts of new thoughts are the style, you have met the person who is so afraid of being narrow-minded and old-fashioned that he slants back into a Bohemian disregard for conventionalities and a worldly wise pose of cynicism.

And conversely you have met the girl who is so afraid of being lax in some way that she slants backwards into prudery.

It is well to hark toadying and fawning and flattery and narrow-mindedness and fussiness.

It is well to shrink away from them. But it isn't well not to know when to stop shrinking.

At the furthest extreme from every sin or mistake is another sin or mistake.

Virtue and wisdom are the golden means between these extremes.

Do you slant backwards in anything?

SUMMER RESOLUTIONS.

By MARY RUSSELL.

Do you remember the resolutions you made New Year's day? The air was cool and crisp and the hot, strong blood coursed through one's veins. It was easy to plan and easy to execute the plan. It is when the thermometer climbs high in the tube and the humidity glass is cloudy, and makes one feel uncomfortable even to look at it, that one's resolutions begin to look a little frazzled and weak.

Summer is a time for relaxation—save in a few things. Hot weather is a time for keeping cool and keeping others cool. You cannot have a little cool zephyr playing around your own placid brow if you allow your actions to stir up warm waves in the tempers of those about you.

Hot weather tempers are apt to be highly being and liable to go off at a moment's notice. With the heat comes and hot winds there comes a time when even the most serene is off guard.

After all, though, it is better for the individual who holds himself in check, winter and summer. Consequences are quite as active in the "good old summer time" as when winter winds make the blood tingle and cheeks glow.

Make a little set of resolutions for the summer months. Fourth of July is a good day on which to swear off any.

Have regular duties—it does not pay to let go of everything just because it is holiday time.

Resolve to keep your temper cool and serene. Don't pile your work on willing shoulders while you play. Perhaps the owner of those willing shoulders would like to play a little.

At any rate they would not accumulate too much if it allowed to rest a little while you attend to your part of the household or social duties.

Don't keep people waiting. If you make engagements in hot weather, it is not a soothing thing to make an appointment and stand sweltering in some hot store, waiting for a dear delinquent, who will come in all cool and fresh from the bath which has delighted her, and with cool effrontery, wonder why you are so cross. If you will make appointments force yourself to keep them punctually and to the minute, if a girl or man or boy fails to keep appointments it does not pay to be disagreeable, but it does pay not to make another engagement with that particular person.

This being late to keep appointments is not wholly a failing of women, but they are the worst offenders.

One woman rather thinks it is a joke that her friends refer to her as "The late Mrs. Jones." It is not so funny for the other friends who have wasted good hours of busy lives waiting for the same happy-go-lucky lady.

So write on your tablets resolutions to keep sweet in temper. To do your best not to irritate those about you. To keep appointments to the minute and to keep cool inside even when the thermometer hovers about the ninety-four. Why should New Year's Day monopolize the good resolution habit?

Daily Helps to Health and Happiness

By GEORGE E. BUTLER, A.M., M.D.

If you wish to be liked, make yourself liked; if you wish to be happy, help to make others happy. Is it not strange that many of us should be ready to help those who do not want help, and brutally careless about those who do? Dinners are given to those whose health would be much improved if they ate less, while those who really want a dinner find great difficulty in getting one. Many a poor invalid might be almost restored to strength by a few drives in the automobile of some rich lady who is ruining her health by not walking or taking any kind of exercise. "Smiling on thy neighbor's face is charity," and there is often more real charity in a kind look or word or in the suppression of an outburst of temper than in the gift of much money.

It is our duty to do something to make the world a little better and happier than when we found it. Kindly words, sympathizing attentions, watchfulness against wounding people's feelings—these cost very little; but they are priceless in their value. Do all the kindness you can to those you meet, for you will not pass this way again.

OFFICERS OF BOARD
CHOSEN AT MEETING

Fred A. Baker Elected President of Evansville School Board for Next Three Years.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Evansville, July 6.—The annual school meeting was held Tuesday evening and was attended by about eighty-five people, fully one half of whom were men. Fred A. Baker was elected chairman of the meeting.
 Principal F. J. Lowth was unable to be present and his report was read by C. J. Pearson, president of the board. The report was unusually interesting, containing many helpful suggestions, and it was voted to have it printed in full. The reports of the clerk, treasurer, school board and auditing committee were read and adopted. The treasurer's report showed a surplus of $1,200.00 in the school fund and $122.85 in the library fund. The total disbursements for the year were $16,350.29. In the election of officers, Fred A. Baker was unanimously elected as president of expired and who refused to be renominated. Walter E. Green was elected as clerk for one year. As members of the board Mrs. Peter Smith was elected to represent the third ward and G. W. Leyda was elected to succeed Max Fisher.

 Messrs. C. J. Pearson, Everett Van Patten and O. S. Shepard were appointed an auditing committee. The old question regarding free text books was again voted down. The chairman then read a petition signed by fifty or more taxpayers asking the district to appropriate a sum of money to erect a school building on the east side. The matter was discussed at some length and as the hour was getting late it was agreed to adjourn, to meet again at the call of the board of education to further consider the matter.

SERIOUS FIRE LOSS
TO FARM BUILDINGS

William Letts of South Magnolia, Loses Barns, Tobacco Shed and Much Stock—House Was Barely Saved.

At four o'clock Wednesday afternoon fire was discovered in the tobacco shed of William Letts in South Magnolia and before the neighbors who were hastily summoned by telephone, could reach the farm, the barn, pig sty, hen houses, rabbit other out-buildings were ablaze. A bucket brigade was formed and thanks to a good supply of water in the tank they were able to keep the house from catching fire and confining the loss to the other farm buildings. Two fine horses, tied in the barn, were destroyed as were five sheep and a number of hogs and all the chickens in four large chicken houses, two hundred bushels of barley, a large quantity of corn, some hay, farm machinery and wagons bringing the total loss up to some thirty-five hundred dollars. Mr. Letts has insurance for only $1,500 so his loss will be quite heavy. The origin of the fire is a mystery as it started in the tobacco shed and when discovered by the children, the whole structure was blazing. Everything being dry gave the fire a good headway and made it hard to check. It was only through the prompt work of the neighbors who rushed to the call of the telephone, that the house was not destroyed also.

Beautiful Hair at Small Cost

HAIR troubles, like many other diseases, have been wrongly diagnosed and altogether misunderstood. The hair itself is not the thing to be treated, for the reason that it is simply a product of the scalp and wholly dependent upon its action. The scalp is the very soil in which the hair is produced, nurtured and grown, and it alone should receive the attention it really is to be expected. It would do no earthly good to treat the stem of a plant with a view of making it grow and become more beautiful—the soil in which the plant grows must be attended to. Therefore, the scalp in which the hair grows must receive the attention (if you are to expect it to grow and become more beautiful).

Loss of hair is caused by the scalp drying up, or losing its supply of moisture or nutriment; when baldness occurs, the scalp has simply lost all its nutriment, leaving nothing for the hair to feed upon. A plant or even a tree would die under similar conditions.

The natural thing to do in either case, is to feed and replenish the soil of scalp as the case may be, and your crop will grow and multiply as nature intended it should.

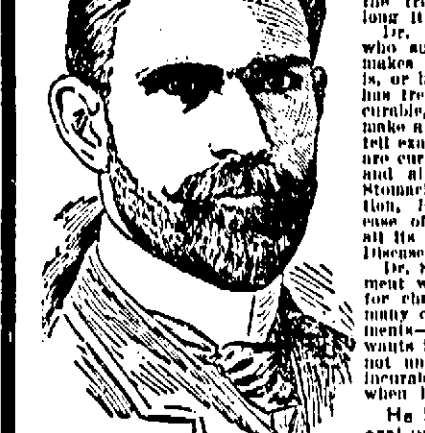

Knowlton's Danderine has a most wonderful effect upon the hair glands and tissues of the scalp. It is the only remedy for the hair ever discovered that is similar to the natural hair foods or liquids of the scalp.

It penetrates the pores quickly and the hair soon shows the effects of its wonderfully exhilarating and life-producing qualities. One 5-cent bottle is enough to convince you of its great worth as a hair growing and hair beautifying remedy—try it and see for yourself.

The Courage of Captain Plum

CHAPTER IX.

The Hand of Fate.

Like a panther Nathaniel crouched and watched the man on the steps. His muscles jerked, his hands were clenched; each instant he seemed about to spring. But he held himself back until Strang had passed through the door. Then he slipped along the log wall of the castle, hugging the shadows, tearing that the king might reappear and see him in time to close the door. What an opportunity fate had made for him! His fingers itched to get at Strang's thick bull-like throat. He felt no fear, no hesitation about the outcome of the struggle with this giant prophet of God. He did not plan to shoot, for a shot would destroy the secret of Marlon's fate. He would choke the truth from Strang; rob him of life slowly, gasp by gasp, until in the horror of death the king would reveal his hiding place—would tell what he had done with her.

Then he would kill him!

There was the strength of tempered steel in his arms; his body, slender as an athlete's, quivered to hurt itself into action. Up the steps he crept so cautiously that he made no sound. In the intensity of his purpose Nathaniel looked only ahead of him—to the door. He did not see that another figure was stealing through the gloom behind him as cautiously, as quietly as himself. He passed through the door and stood erect. Strang had not seen him. He had not heard him. He was standing with his huge back toward him, facing the hall that led to the sixth chamber—and the woman. Nathaniel drew his pistol. He would not shoot, but Strang might be made to tell the truth with death leveling itself at his head. He groped behind him, found the door, and slammed it shut. There would be no retreat for the king!

And the man who turned toward him at the slamming of that door, turned slowly, coolly, and gazed into the black muzzle of his pistol looked, indeed, every inch of him a king. The muscles of his face betrayed no surprise, no fear. His splendid nerve was unshaken, his eyes unflinching as they rose above the pistol to the face behind it. For a moment, seconds there was a strange terrible silence as the eyes of the two men met. In that quarter of a minute Nathaniel knew that he had not guessed rightly. Strang was not afraid. He would not tell him where Marlon was. The insuperable courage of this man maddened Captain Plum and unconsciously his finger fell upon the trigger of his pistol. He almost shrieked the words that he meant to speak calmly:

"Where is Marlon?"

"She is safe, Captain Plum. She is where the friends who are invading us from the mainland will have no chance of finding her."

Strang spoke as quietly as though in his own office beside the temple. Suddenly he raised his voice.

"She is safe, Captain Plum—safe!"

His eyes wavered, and traveled beyond. As accurately as a striking serpent Nathaniel measured that glance. It had gone to the door. He heard a movement, felt a draft of air, and in an instant he whirled about with his pistol pointed to the door. In another instant he had fired and the huge form of Arbor Croche toppled headlong into the room. A roar like that of a beast came from behind him and before he could turn again Strang was upon him. In that moment he felt upon him. Under the weight of the Mormon king he was crushed to the floor; his pistol slipped from his grasp; two great hands choked a despairing cry from his throat. He saw the prophet's face over him, distorted with passion, his huge neck bulging, his eyes flaming like angry garnets. He struggled to free his pinned arms, to wrench off the death grip at his throat, but his efforts were like those of a child against a giant. In a last terrible attempt he drew up his knees inch by inch under the weight of his enemy. It was his only chance—his only hope. Even as he felt the fingers about his throat slaking like hot iron into his flesh and the breath slipping from his body he remembered this murderous knee-punch of the rough fighters of the inland seas and with all the life that remained in him he sent it crashing into the abdomen of the Mormon king. It was a moment before he knew that it had been successful, before the film cleared from his eyes and he saw Strang groveling at his feet; another moment and he hurled himself on the prophet. His flat shot out like a hammer against Strang's jaw. Again and again he struck until the great shaggy head fell back thump. Then his fingers twined themselves like the links of a chain about the purplish throat and he choked until Strang's eyes opened wide and lifeless and his convulsions ceased. He would have held on until there was no doubt of the end, had not the king's wife—the woman whose misery he had shared that night—suddenly flung herself with a piercing cry, between him and the blackened face, clutching at his hands with all her fragile strength.

His Fingers Twined About the Purplish Throat.

"My God, you are killing him—killing him!" she moaned.

Her eyes blazed as she tore at his fingers.

"You are killing him—killing him!" she shrieked. "He has not destroyed Marlon! You said you would take her and leave him—for me!" She struck her head against his breast, tearing the flesh of his wrists with her nails.

Nathaniel loosened his grip and staggered to his feet.

"For you!" he panted. "If you had only come—a little sooner!"

He stumbled to his pistol and picked it up. "I am afraid he is—dead!"

He did not look back.

Arbor Croche barred the door. He had not moved since he had fallen. His head was twisted so that his face was turned to the glow of the lamp and Nathaniel shuddered as he saw where his shot had struck. He had apparently died with that last cry on his lips.

There was no longer a fear of the Mormons in Nathaniel. He believed the king and Arbor Croche dead, and that in the gloom and excitement of the night he could go among the people of St. James undiscovered. A great load was lifted from his soul, for if he had not been in time to save Marlon he had at least delivered her after a short bondage. He had now only to save Marlon and she would go with him, for she loved him—and Strang was no more.

He hurried through the grove toward the temple. Even before he had come near to it he could see that a great crowd had congregated there. The street which he passed was deserted. No lights shone in the houses. Even the dogs were gone. For the first time he understood what it meant. The whole town had fled to that huge log stronghold for protection. Buildings and trees shut out his view seaward but he could see the flare of great fires mounting into the sky and he knew that those who were not at the temple were guarding the shore.

Suddenly he almost fell over a figure in his path. It was an old woman mumbled and sobbing incoherently as she stumbled weakly in the direction of the temple. Like an inspiration the thought came to him that here was his opportunity of gaining admittance to that multitude of women and children. He seized the old woman by the arm and spoke words of courage to her as he half carried her on her way. A few minutes more and a blaze of light burst upon them and the great square in which the temple was situated lay open before them. Half a hundred yards ahead a fire was burning; oil and pine sent their lurid flame high up into the night, and in the thick gloom behind it, intensified by the blinding glare, Nathaniel saw the shadows of men. He caught the old woman in his arms and went on boldly. He passed close to a thin line of waiting men, saw the faint glint of firelight on their rifles, and staggering past them unchallenged with his weight he stopped for a moment to look back. The effect was startling. Beyond the three great fires that blazed around the temple the clearing was bathed in a sea of light; in its concealment of giant trees the temple was buried in gloom. From the gloom a hundred cool eyes might slaughter five times their number clashing across that death square.

Nathaniel could not repress a shudder as he looked. Scarcely behind each of the three fires was a cannon. He figured that there were more than
